

Oxford Scholastica OxBright Guidelines

We want everyone to have a positive and constructive experience at OxBright. In order for that to happen, we've laid out some basic guidelines below which we hope you'll agree are mostly common sense.

We want everyone to take responsibility for their own learning, and OxBright is definitely one of those experiences where you get out as much as you put in. As an OxBright member, you'll meet live with your Mentor and fellow OxBright members each week. You'll also have access to our community platform, Circle, which is an important part of the programme - it's where your Mentor will post content for you, and a chance for you to debate, interact with and support your peers.

We hope that you'll make the most of all the opportunities on offer through OxBright. We think that if you do, this programme can be a transformative experience for you - and give you the edge for your future success.

We hope the guidelines below are self-explanatory. If you have any questions, just let us know.

- Please try to attend all the live sessions, and always let your Mentor know in advance (by posting in Circle) if you're not going to be able to attend a session
- If you don't understand something, or you have a question – just ask! Your Mentor will be more than happy to answer any questions. In fact, giving you the space to ask questions is one of the reasons we designed OxBright!
- If you have any technical issues, let us know here, and we'll be able to help
- Your Mentor will treat you with respect, and we expect you to act respectfully towards them, and to your peers
- Any form of bullying, harassment or racism will not be tolerated - if you are being bullied, or witness bullying, please let us know immediately
- Please make sure you stay on topic and keep the conversation in the Zoom chat and on Circle relevant to your subject
- We reserve the right to remove you as an OxBright member if you fail to abide by these guidelines

Many thanks and very much looking forward to having you as an OxBright member!
